

“Everything Aquatic” Water Festival

What’s new in the field of aquatics– from aquarium design to conservation of endangered aquatic species – Jeff Gibula, Husbandry Director, Newport Aquarium

Responsible pet ownership and how exotic species make their way into local habitats – Mr. Jim Crowley

The anatomy of aquatics – how specific aquatic species are adapted to their local aquatic habitats – Dr. Chris Lorentz, Director of the Ohio River Biology Field Station, Thomas More College.

What do our tank test results really mean? – Olivia Lantry, Director of Educational programming, Ohio River Biology Field Station, Thomas More College.

Macro-invertebrates of the Ohio River Valley – Ed Wilcox, The Foundation for Ohio River Education, ORSANCO

Aquatic Art – fish painting and other aquatic art – Mr. Larry Flinner, volunteer, Newport Aquarium.

Kentucky WILD – games that use the diverse aquatic population of Kentucky – Julie Uffman, Development Director, Newport Aquarium.

Sharks – adaptations of an apex predator – Siobhan Slone, Educator, Newport Aquarium.

Nature Photography – composition and photography of aquatic species. – Dr. Jerry Carpenter, Northern Kentucky University, emeritus professor.

Your watershed – what affects the aquatic “address” of the Ohio River Valley --- Witni Sztanyo, Sanitation District 1 of Northern Kentucky.

December 21-22, 2009

Tichenor Middle School